First-rate preview for Two by Two

British musician Gavin Rossdale was the focus of unfettered adoration when he performed a unique outdoor concert Thursday night at the Preston Hollow estate of art collectors Cindy and Howard Rachofsky. Married to superstar Gwen Stefani, Gavin is the former frontman for the band Bush. "This house is otherworldly," he said, sounding a bit like Forgetting Sarah Marshall's Aldous Snow as he looked up at the Richard

Meier-designed mansion.

The event was First Look, the preamble to Saturday's black-tie Two by Two for AIDS and Art. The audience listened with rapt attention as he worked through a set of his songs. But it was his cover of the Stevie Nicks tune "Landslide" that had everyone swaying and singing along.

Among the listeners was Sotheby's chairman Warren Weitman and his wife, Eve Reid; Monterrey-Dallas businessman Eduardo Brittingham; husband and wife doctors Craig and Shanon Schwimmer; Dallas real estate veteran Leland Burk, and jet-setter Kenny Goss.

Project Siriano

Opening for Rossdale was hobbitish fashion designer Christian Siriano, winner for season four of Project Runway. Forty-Five Ten owner Brian Bolke helped stage a pre-concert runway show of his clothes favored by Victoria Beckham and Heidi Klum.

Jenny and John Kirtland hosted the party with DJ fave Lucy Wrubel and her husband, Steve.

Monica Kay?

Last week, tennis great Monica Seles didn't leave Dallas in a pink Cadillac, but she was otherwise indoctrinated into the Mary Kay way.

She was the speaker at the Elisa Project's Life Lesson Luncheon, and the Hilton Anatole booked her into its Mary Kay Suite. Nancy Rogers, wife of Mary Kay chairman Richard Rogers (son of Mary Kay Ash), was a presenting sponsor. She dispatched a Mary Kay gift basket to Ms. Seles' suite.
